

Voom should survive as a 3rd option in satellite TV business to keep the field competitive. Voom is the leader in High Definition TV and without Voom the other satellite TV providers would not feel any pressure to provide more HD programming and move us forward. Everything should be done to help Voom survive the initial difficult period.